

From obs (11/30/2020): "The sugary surface snow is running in loose dry sluffs on steep slopes and I set off a small avalanche coming through a steep section, not a big slide but enough to knock you off your feet if you're not paying attention. It broke about 1' deep, 15' wide, and ran probably 30' before stopping as the slope lessened in steepness."

Photo: J. Dalimata

Advisory Region

Northern Madison

Longitude

-111.38W

Latitude

45.34N

Avalanche Details: Facet sluffing in Beehive/Middle Basins

Northern Madison, 2020-12-01